It is for orders as to the number of instalments to be fixed for effecting the recovery of Govt dues.

It may be submitted that the number of instalments depends upon the amount due from each individual officer.

In this connection it may be suggested that the right of a person to pension the benefits of pension accr seem to accrue only after a full adjustment of the Govt dues from each person has been made. In all cases where a pension is given in lieu of a lumpsum payment previously drawn and enjoyed by the party, the practice has to be that the payment of pension has to commence only after the amount already drawn is fully recovered by the pension instalments.

If any portion of the pension is allowed to be paid before the P.F. bonus is fully recovered, and the party were to die before the whole bonus is recovered, he would have drawn more than he is entitled to under either the P.F. Scheme or Pension Scheme.

(If an exception were to be made, proper security will have to be taken for outstanding balances to safeguard against possible loss & this may lead to complications)

Sir,

I have the honour to state that under G.O. No.EDS.425-428 dated 15-8-41 such of the employees of the Electrical Department as were entertained in service prior to 1-7-1919 and retired on or after 1-1-1938 are eligible to pension from the date of retirement subject among other things to the proviso that they have drawn their bonus or Provident Fund under protest and are agreeable to refund the bonus or Government contribution. The following points arise as regards the mode of refund of the bonus or Government contribution or both.

1. Whether the refund has to be made by the pensioners in a lump or adjusted out of the accumulated arrears of pension or out o the pension that will hereafter accrue.

2. Whether interest should not be charged on the lumpsum for the period from the date of drawal to the date of sanction of pension in view of their having drawn a large sum in advance and the consequent advantage derived by them. It seems but reasonable that a reasonable rate of interest should be charge in all such cases, treating the amount as a loan repayable by the amount of monthly pension in instalments, and interest being charged on the reducing balances on the anology of House Building Advance or Motor Car Advances upto the end of the mon in which the last instalment is paid.

I enclose herein a copy of the statement received from the Auditor, Electrical Department, furnishing concrete instances where large sums have been paid in a lumpsum.

I request early orders of Government on these points to enable thi office to dispose of their pension applications.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
